

Chart of Ethics

International Viticulture and Enology Society (IVES)

Introduction:

IVES (International Viticulture and Enology Society) is an international academic association dedicated to viticulture and oenology. Founded in 2017 by a group of leading universities and research institutes in these fields, it aims at making the results of scientific research freely available. IVES publishes OENO One, a vine and wine open access research journal, founded in 2016. Peer-reviewed, it is a world academic reference in terms of scientific publication in viticulture and oenology. IVES Technical Reviews - Vine and Wine, is a journal founded in 2019 dedicated to the transfer of research results in viticulture and oenology to professionals. Both journals adhere to a general code of ethics in its publication activities.

Private partners are engaged alongside IVES to participate in the free dissemination of high level scientific knowledge.

The private partner “.....”:

- states that, by supporting IVES, it has no direct commercial objectives targeting the readers of the journals or its academic or private partners;
- undertakes no attempt to influence the editorial policy of the IVES' journals and does not undertake actions with the aim of favoring its interests during events or meetings organized by the association;
- will not be allowed to distribute advertising, communication or services via the websites, mailing lists or meetings of IVES. Only the logo and/or the name of the company will be displayed on the IVES website. Any other form of communication will have to be mutually agreed upon by IVES and the partner;
- is encouraged and free to disseminate, any information concerning IVES, its journals and the partnership via its own channels.

If the conditions of the Chart of Ethics are not met, the Executive Committee of IVES can exclude the partner.

Signed on behalf of (Entity name and address):

By (name of delegate and position):

Acting under delegated authority (date, signature and Entity stamp):